EFFORT TO DEFER ACTION OF BOARD

Will be Made by Committee of Citizens

Stock of Local Aspirants Fall in Contest for Superintendency of Schools.

SITUATION IS COMPLICATED.

Interest off over the city centers in the meeting of the school board tonight, and particularly in the election of the new superintendent of the public schools. It is freely intimated on all sides that a crisis in the affairs of the Paducah schools has been reached. It is understood that efforts are being made today to induce the board to defer the election until later in the month giving more time to investigate men, and it is probable that the efforts will be made clear up until the meeting tonight.

At least two prominent men in the city, whose affairs bring them in touch with educational conditions, know of men in the east who would be available and whose qualifications would be calculated to carry forward the school system to a higher state of efficiency. They are men who are interested in furthering the revival of interest in education which just now is sweeping over the south. It is believed that they could be secured if the proper effort is made to get their attention to the opening here.

It can be definitely announced that so far as three of the leading members of the board are concerned, the new superintendent if he is elected tonight, will be an out-of-town man. However, some of the local men have friends on the board, and it is probable that they will be placed in nomination. One local candidate has a strong following, and it is improbable that he will be ignored without an effort to be elected.

The members of the school board show a disposition to listen to all suggestions, but as they think they have had the subject under consideration for two months, they are going about the election resolutely. Interest in having the election deferred is manifested most strongly in the people who pay the taxes and who have children in the schools, and these people will be represented at the board meeting tonight.

C. C. & W. CLUB ELECTS ALL ITS OLD OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the Chess, Checker and Whist club was held last night and all officers were re-elected as follows: Dr. J. Q. Taylor, president; Charles Thompson, vice-president; Frank B. May, secretary; Nolan Van Culin, treasurer. Directors: Dr. J. Q. Taylor, Nolan Van Culin, Harry Meyers, Henry Diehl and R. L. Reeves. The club is the only successful one ever maintained in Paducah. It has been in existence since 1900 and has grown wonderfully. There are now 190 members. A limit is placed on the membership and no one under 21 years old is admitted to the club membership. The treasury shows a surplus of $2,000.

Many persons were ridden down and badly injured. The public is barred from admittance to the palace by a cordon of troops. At noon the douma formally opened and M. Colovin, a liberal, was chosen president.

HOLLAND'S TEAM TO PLAY CULLEY'S

If Agreement Can be Reached With Manager

Paducah Has Another Aspirant to Represent City on Diamond Next Summer.

PLAYERS FROM I. C. SHOPS.

John Holland, the one-legged catcher, who played two seasons of fast baseball thus handicapped in a Kansas league, is to manage a Paducah team this season and promises nothing but the best. He will challenge the Culley team, to play for the privilege of the half park, if the consent of Manager Trail, of the team, and Manager John S. Bleeker, of the traction company, can be secured.

John Holland is a Paducah boy and learned baseball on Paducah's commons. He had his left foot cut off above the ankle railroading, but got a cork leg. Soon he was catching again, and catching professional ball. He is a fair good runner and covers home plate perfectly. With the stick he is a star.

"I have some good men at the railroad shops who will play in my team," Holland stated. "I have Lon Hedges for pitcher. We expect to get up a team which will beat anything in Paducah and hope that the Culley team will accept our challenge. If we are better ball players and can represent the city better than they, we should have the park."

Lon Hedges pitched one season of phenomenal ball for Milwaukee in the American association and later was in the Three I league. Lately he has been out of the game. Holland works at the Illinois Central shops.

MAY BE NO SUIT.

Concord, N. H., March 5.—Suit was given today by persons intimately associated with Harry Baker, G. Eddy that the sensational suit instituted against the managers of her estate, charging conspiracy to control her fortune for their own advantage, may be discontinued before the date set for its trial. On statements volunteered by bankers and other distinguished citizens of Concord, the lawyers for Mrs. Eddy feel that they already have sufficient material to defeat the action.

Upon returning from breakfast she found the elevator had settled several feet. In attempting to raise it and readjust the safety appliances, she turned the lever the wrong way and was crushed between the elevator and the floor.

NEARING CLOSE OF THE EVIDENCE

Little More Testimony in Chief For Harry Thaw

Jerome Concludes Cross-Examination of Expert Evans and Has Another on Stand.

MRS. WM. THAW PROBABLY NEXT.

New York, March 5.—Progress of the Thaw case was slow today as far as sensational interest was concerned.

A long stride forward in the Thaw trial was taken when District Attorney Jerome announced that his exhaustive cross examination of Dr. Evans had been concluded. Evans had been under fire since Wednesday morning last. He was succeeded on the stand by Dr. Charles G. Wagner, Binghamton, who accompanied Evans on most of his visits to New York in the Tombs.

Mrs. William Thaw is expected to be the next figure in the witness chair. With Mrs. Thaw's testimony in, the defense will practically have completed its case and it seems likely that the state's case in rebuttal may begin before the end of the week.

Puzzled Over the Rebuttal.

Just what Jerome will be able to prove on rebuttal remains quite as much a mystery as ever. He complained today in seeking a broad interpretation of rules of evidence by Justice Fitzgerald that if he should call any of the defense's witnesses in rebuttal they might refuse on the ground of professional privilege not to answer any question put to them. This seems to indicate that Jerome's threat to call Allan McLane Hamilton in rebuttal carries with it the possibility that Hamilton may not testify, for at the time he made an examination of Thaw in the Tombs he was in the employ of the prisoner's counsel.

It is not exactly clear to the mind to what extent the district attorney can go in disproving Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's testimony. He has admitted that even if he could show White was out of the country at the time of his alleged encounter with Evelyn Nesbit in his Twenty-fourth street studio, he would not be allowed to do so on the ground that it would be a collateral fact.

To Call Evelyn's Brother.

It appears, however, that the prosecutor can call any one to contradict Mrs. Thaw's story in cases where she said she made certain statements to a third party. In this connection Jerome has indicated he will call Howard Nesbit to testify that his sister told him Thaw had treated her cruelly because she would not tell him about White.

Evans left the witness stand subject to recall for re-direct examination. Evans admitted that Thaw had insane knowledge of what killed White. The New York statutes provide that he is exempt from punishment for crime an insane person must be so demented as not to know the nature or quality of his act or to know the act is wrong.

Wagner, also declared Thaw had irrational knowledge of what was transpiring on the roof garden. He believes that the man's insanity dated from the time Evelyn Nesbit told him her story in Paris in 1904. Wagner created quite a stir in court by using the present tense in responding to a question by Jerome as to what form of insanity Thaw "has or had."

Wagner Says Thaw "Is" Insane.

Wagner declared Thaw "is suffering" from symptoms which lead to ward a melancholic state and a state of dementia praecox. When asked to describe the latter phase, Wagner said it covered such a wide field of dementia as to be difficult of strict definition. Wagner declared Thaw's condition of mind at the time of the shooting was a result of one of the insanities of adolescence. He would not go farther than this in an attempt to classify the exact form.

The district attorney again continued his somewhat puzzling tactics. His questioning of Evans seemed to have the purpose of showing Thaw never was insane to the extent contemplated by criminal statutes of this state. Again with Wagner he pointed toward the same end at one time and at another seemed desirous of having Wagner admit Thaw was suffering from forms of insanity which might not be curable.

J. R. GARFIELD TO INTERIOR

At 5 o'clock this morning when Robert Winston, the negro officer boy at Harry Anderson's cab stand, 408½ Broadway, went out of the office to get a breath of fresh air on the street he left a bright fire in the stove. When called back 20 minutes later, he found it a roaring furnace with firemen fighting the fire. The damage will amount to about $250 for Anderson in accounts, furniture, etc., with no insurance. To W. H. Patterson, owner of the building, the damage will amount to about $200 fully covered by insurance. Ellis & Williams' barber shop, 408 Broadway, was damaged by water to the extent of about $50. The fire is presumed to have started from a defective pipe.

Stationman Dan Badley, of company No. 1, burned his left hand by fighting the fire inside with a stream. His hand was knocked against hot embers. The fire company did excellent work in extinguishing the fire, which gained great headway and was hard to get at on account of its location.

FATHER LEAVES FAMILY STRANDED

After living off the combined wages of his 15-years-old twin boys since January, George Davis, of 1802 Bridge street, is, as alleged, disengaged when one of his younger sons became ill and the entire family was thrown on the Charley club. Davis lived at Mayfield until his wife died in July. In January he came here with his 15-years-old twins and two other sons, five and ten years old, respectively. The twins secured employment in the curtain pole factory and made $7 together. This amount kept the family until last week when the 10-year-old son became ill.

RHEUMATISM AN ACID BLOOD POISON

Rheumatism is an acid blood poison, and the causes that produce it are often silently accumulating in the system for years. Poor digestion, stomach troubles, weak kidneys, torpid liver, and a general inactive condition of the system leaves the refuse and waste matter, which should be carried off, to sour and form uric acid, which is absorbed into the blood. When the blood is in this acid-charged condition, it deposits the poisons and irritating particles with which it is loaded in the muscles, nerves, joints and bones. Then Rheumatism gets possession of the system, and life is made miserable by its pains, aches and discomforts. The changing of the weather, exposure to cold and dampness, etc., always increase the trouble, and so severe does the pain become that quick relief must be had. A good liniment or plaster is often helpful, but it should be remembered that relief from such treatment is only temporary, because the trouble is in the blood and cannot be removed by external applications. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism by ridding the blood of the cause. It goes down into the circulation and by invigorating and purifying the blood of the acid-poison and sending a stream of fresh, rich blood to all parts, relieves the pain, reduces the inflammation, and permanently cures this painful disease. S. S. S. is the only safe treatment for Rheumatism, because it does not contain a particle of mineral in any form to damage the system. Books on Rheumatism and any medical advice desired sent free. RESENTS HOLDUP; SLAIN BY ROBBERS

Colored Miner is Shot on an
M. P. Train

Two Men at Point of Revolvers Go Through Passengers Near Pittsburg, Kansas.

PEOPLE TALK OF LYNCHING.

Pittsburg, Kansas, March 5.—The Missouri Pacific passenger train, which left here at 7:20 last evening, was held up by two men in disguise. Lou Jeff, a colored miner, was killed because he protested, and W. L. Westlake, of Toledo, Ohio who with his wife and two children had been visiting relatives in Kansas, was shot through the hand by a stray bullet, fired at the negro.

The men were disguised only with false mustaches and goatees. They boarded the train here at the station and began working the train as soon as it passed the Kansas City southern shops. They commenced at the smoking car, and one walked ahead with a .44 calibre revolver in each hand, and quietly asked the passengers to "shell out" to the man behind, who was closely following. They were not far behind the train auditor, and followed him into the ladies' coach.

Negro's Final Stand.

When they came to Jeff in the ladies' coach he at once grasped the idea that it was a hold-up, and after the auditor had passed him he pulled a revolver and took a shot at the foremost robber, who shot twice at him. The first shot went wild and struck Westlake, but the second shot struck the negro in the head and killed him instantly. They then quietly made the auditor stand and deliver and hurriedly left the train as it entered the yard at Cornell.

Westlake, the wounded passenger, was taken to Liberal, where his hand was dressed by a surgeon of the company. A switch engine with a posse of officers was sent to Cornell, which is four miles from here.

The country surrounding Pittsburg is thickly settled, and is dotted with scores of villages and mining camps. It is reported that news that a miner was killed by bandits has spread rapidly and that the miners are aroused and will make an attempt to capture and lynch the men.

There were few passengers on the train and the robbers secured only a little over $100 in cash and a few watches and revolvers.

Fay Day on the Plantation.

"The men stand in the front rank, stealthily chewing their quids of tobacco far back in their mouths, and hitching up their loose trousers. The field-workers stand behind, like the men, in clothing soiled from the field work. In separate groups stand the indoor workers, stable men, blacksmiths, carpenters, etc. The young boys and girls, who carry water to the fields, stand together, giggling over their importance. The old women and men, whose working and pay days are over, hobble near enough to hear and see what goes on. The sickly ones from the quarters are there, and the women with young babies, whom they suckle as they shift from one foot to the other and pass remarks on the paying off."

In this manner Grace King describes a plantation pay day in her story, "The Cloghopper" in the March McClure's. One of the field women, "The Cloghopper," is the heroine of the tale, and the nobility of her nature is finely brought out in her struggle and sacrifices for her boy. The writer also shows that the soil and its hard labor may be a blessing instead of the brutal influence it is so often deemed.

Minstrels Coming.

THEATRICAL NOTES

"Slaves of the Orient" Tonight.

The Gertrude Ewing company began a week's engagement at The Kentucky last night presenting the Russian play "In the Shadow of the Czar." The seats were sold long before time for the curtain to rise and the theater was well crowded. Miss Ewing and her company are pleasantly remembered by theater-goers, as was attested by the welcome accorded them last night. The play was prettily staged and handsomely costumed and was well acted by an evenly balanced company. Miss Ewing as La Tisla, the French actress, had the most important role, and handled it in a creditable manner. She is earnest in her work, and together with a pleasing appearance and strong delivery, she left no doubt in the minds of her audience as to her ability. She has surrounded herself with a capable company, headed by Mr. Louis Dean, who was her leading man two years ago. He has a handsome appearance and possesses a powerful voice, an excellent quality over which he seems to have perfect control. The part played by Mr. Dean last night was thankless one, as it does not elicit the sympathy of the audience, and yet by his careful and artistic handling of it, he showed himself to be an actor of ability, and won much well deserved favorable comment. Mr. J. G. Stutzman, in the part of Siekeloff, the minister of police, showed considerable ability and handled a difficult character in a pleasing manner. Mr. William N. Smith as the spy, deserves mention for the careful and painstaking manner in which he handled a peculiar and unsatisfactory character. We hope to see some better things from Mr. Smith during the week. The balance of the company were pleasing in unimportant roles. The specialties by Mr. Drew Summers, the McNutt Twins and Mr. Charles Calville were all enthusiastically encored and added much to the enjoyment of the audience. Miss Ewing has a splendid company and will undoubtedly receive a liberal patronage nightly, which she well deserves. Several new plays are promised during the week. The offering for tonight is "The Slaves of the Orient," a sensational Turkish melo-drama for which the company carries special scenery and costumes.

"The Gingerbread Man."

The members of "The Gingerbread Man" company, the Ranken-Sloane musical fairiesque that will be the attraction at the Kentucky on Thursday night of this week, are experiencing a new and pleasing sensation. So imbued have they become with the spirit of the various characters, Kirs Kringle, Margery Daw, Jack Horner, Simple Simon, Sally Lunn, etc., the merry jingle of Christmas bells, the prevailing influence of living in Santa Claus' land during the action of the play, that every day is a Christmas day with them. This feeling of good cheer is experienced by the principals and chorus, and many costly and beautiful presents are being given and received. Manager Rice, although pleased at the good feeling existing among the member of his company, is worried over the fact that all their salary is going for presents. "If this feeling keeps up," says Mr. Rice, "I will have to get a new play or engage a new company every month. It is only within the past week or so that I have realized the full significance of this feeling, for every day I have been compelled to give them advances on salary."

WHAT THEY CURE.—We often ask "What do Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines—"Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription" cure?" Briefly, the answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alternative, or blood-purifier, and tonic, or restorative, and "Favorite Prescription" is without doubt the most successful constitutional remedy for all forms of catarrhal diseases known to modern medical science. In chronic Nasal Catarrh Dr. Sage Catarrh Remedy should be used for washing and rinsing out the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder curing a large percentage of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the larynx, bronchi, stomach, bowels (acute mucous diarrhoea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or intermitting stages of these affections, it is generally successful in curing them. CHILD WAS BURNED TO DEATH.

Four-Year-Old Hazel Reed Set Fire to Clothing While Lighting Lamp.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Her screams for help drowned by the rattle of machinery on the floor below, 4-year-old Hazel Reed was roasted to death in her home on the second floor of 124 Van Sickle Avenue, after her clothing had been ignited by the match with which she tried to light the ground floor laundry, where a huge ironing machine smoothes out collars and cuffs and makes a terrific noise from morning till night.

The little girl was left alone in the parlor when her mother, Mrs. Ella Reed, went to the basement to get a fresh supply of coal for the kitchen stove. The mother was not gone more than fifteen minutes, and the first warning she had of an accident was when she saw the body of her little girl lying in a room adjoining the parlor, burned almost to a crisp.

No one in the building or in the building adjoining heard any outcry until Mrs. Reed raised her voice in alarm. Then all the neighbors and the folks who toll in the laundry below came rushing into the apartment.

of these people, so ready and anxious to recommend Dr. Pierce's Medicines, have themselves been cured, or some friend or loved one has been cured, by these medicines. Naturally, a sense of gratitude prompts such persons to recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to other afflicted ones. Notwithstanding that these medicines have been on general sale, in drug and medicine stores, for more than two decades, yet their sale continues to grow as it could not were they not medicines of more ordinary merit.

Although base attacks have sometimes been made upon Dr. Pierce's medicines, which temporarily injured their sale, as in the case of the malicious, mendacious and libelous article published in 1894 in the Ladies' Home Journal of Philadelphia, yet their sale is greater to-day than ever. The publishers of that paper were brought to account and judgment obtained against them in consequence of their malicious article concerning Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The fidelity of its statements were proven in open court and judgment was obtained against the publishers for a substantial amount.

Starves For Sake of Education

New York.—He was only four feet tall and weighed less than seven pounds. Yet the score of juvenile offenders who were awaiting to be sentenced in the Children's Court thought he was the greatest hero on earth. Many red cheeks were stained with tears as the youngster related a sad tale of starvation, exile, abandonment and affliction. The prisoner at the bar was Joseph Cohen, ten years old, of Kopian, Russia. He was charged with being a vagrant.

Joseph came to New York two years ago from Russia. For two years, night after night, he has slept in the dark, lonely alleys of the Jewish quarters. His ambition was to learn to speak English and later to become an engineer. Often he went hungry for days. He was arrested a few days ago, being asleep on the floor of a theater street tenement.

Saw Parents Massacred.

Magistrate Olmsted was about to commit Joseph to a home, when he saw up and said he wished to put in a defense.

"I was compelled to sleep in the hallway because I had no other place," said the prisoner calmly in good English. "I came here from Russia two years ago with a friend who later deserted me. While in Russia a massacre took place, and before my eyes my dear mother and father were killed by the Czar's soldiers. I made up my mind to become a great man, and for that reason came to New York."

"I went to Public School No. 7, on Chrystie street during the day and went to hear good lectures in the evenings. Sometimes I helped the fish peddlers near the Williamsburg bridge, and they would give me a few cents. I obtained my supper in a saloon on Broome street, helping the hooligans there in return. When 10 o'clock came around I secured several bags and cheap clothes, which I used as pillows while sleeping on the bare floor of different tenement houses.

"Charity Doesn't Suit Me."

"If I couldn't find a hallway, I would creep into some cellar. This I have kept up for almost two years. I didn't do anything wrong, and I guess I ought to be discharged. You see, I am ambitious and want to be an engineer some day. It is a great profession and I can earn a large salary through it."

One of the court officers who heard the boy's story asked him about some lectures which had been delivered the spectators some of the subjects days. Joseph quickly gave the date and place of each lecture and told what were discussed by the lecturers.

The boy was committed to the care of the Children's Society, where last night he enjoyed a warm bed and a good supper.

"This charity business doesn't suit me," said Joseph as he left the courtroom.

WASP IS COMING.

Little Gunboat Will Reach Memphis on March 10.

New Orleans, March 5.—The United States gunboat Wasp left here at 10 o'clock this morning with Paducah as her ultimate destination. She is on a recruiting cruise, and has just completed a six weeks' trip along the Atlantic coast. She is going up the Mississippi and Ohio rivers as far as she can go, stopping for a time at Chief Bootswain J. S. Croghan, who reports to the naval recruiting officers stationed in the large cities. Likely recruits are picked up on the way and duly enlisted at the stations. The Wasp will reach Memphis March 10 and will report to Lieut.-Com. McGaugh at Memphis, the recruiting chief of the Mississippi district, who will direct the movements of the Wasp, and has received orders to proceed north, stopping to call at Vicksburg.

MANY CHILDREN IN CONGESTED DISTRICTS
VICTIMS OF CONSUMPTION

S. Goodfellow, a specialist from New York, declares that ten percent of the children in the congested districts of Cleveland are victims of tuberculosis.

The same deplorable conditions have been found to exist in other cities, and the eradication of the white plague among children has been started in earnest. Sanitary conditions are being improved, roof treatment, affording fresh air, is given, and nourishing food is being supplied.

Children with weak lungs are susceptible to colds, which cause the lungs to become sore. The tubercular germ settles in the sore places and sets up what is called a "mixed" infection, the starting point of consumption.

Parents are warned against giving children cough or cold remedies containing opium, as narcotics only stifle the lungs and render them more susceptible to the deadly tubercular germ. The following simple formula, the ingredients of which can be obtained from any good prescription druggist at small cost, will break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure my cough that is capable: Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), one-half ounce; Glycerine, two ounces; good Whisky, a half pint. Take in teaspoonful doses every four hours.

An eminent authority on lung trouble says if this simple and effective formula was known and generally used, throat, lung and bronchial affections would seldom reach an acute stage. This should be used in selecting pure ingredients, and to avoid substitution, it is best that they be purchased separately and mixed in your own home.

The Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) should be purchased by the original half-ounce vials, put up expressly for druggists to dispense. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case, with engraved wrapper, with the name—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure). Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act of June 30, 1906, serial number 451.

Prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, Ohio—genuinely distilled therein. There are many rank imitations of Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), which are put up under similar names and style of package. Never accept these as a substitute for the Pure Virgin Oil of Pine, as they will invariably produce nausea and never effect the desired results.

TAFT IS LEADING IN POPULARITY.

West Seems to Favor Him Next to Roosevelt

Advertisements Using United States Flag Prohibited by State Laws.

PRESIDENT'S FAMINE RELIEF.

Washington, March 5.—Reports coming from the west are giving great encouragement to the friends of the Taft presidential movement. Keen interest is being taken here in political circles in the polls which are being made of Republican members of western legislatures. Strong sentiment for the secretary of war is opening the eyes of those who thought that the great demand for the nomination of Roosevelt in 1908 could not be diverted to Secretary Taft.

Advocates from South Dakota and Kansas, regarded as typical of the feeling in the west, indicate that in the event President Roosevelt cannot be persuaded to accept another nomination, Secretary Taft will be second choice and receive the votes which would be given to President Roosevelt. In South Dakota the poll of the legislature gave Taft forty-six votes, more than all the other candidates combined received; and in Kansas, where it is reported that a Roosevelt delegation will be sent to the next convention, it is believed that as soon as the people become convinced that the president cannot be induced to accept another nomination the Roosevelt strength will shift to Mr. Taft.

Recent revelations during the investigation of the interstate commerce commission will have far-reaching effect in strengthening the Roosevelt contingent in the Republican party. Reports received from all sections of the country show that the great masses of Republicans are unwilling to take a step backward in the policies with which the president has been so closely identified, and that either he or some one like Mr. Taft, who represents his ideas, will be demanded by the next Republican convention.

Flag in Advertising.
That the states may pass laws prohibiting the use of the flag of the United States for advertising purposes, was declared by the supreme court of the United States today in deciding the case of Nicholas V. Halter and Henry V. Hayward, coming to the court from the supreme court of Nebraska. Halter and Hayward are engaged in the liquor business in Omaha and were prosecuted under a law of the state on the charge of selling beer in bottles decorated with the national colors. They were fined $50 each, and on appeal to the state supreme court to verdict was sustained. They admitted all the facts charged, but pleaded the unconstitutional nature of the law. Justice Harlan delivered the opinion of the court, affirming the decision of the state courts. In the course of his opinion Justice Harlan upheld the right of the state to protect the flag, the emblem of the nation's power, against indignities. He said that the use of the flag as an advertisement on beer bottles cheapens and degrades it, and the court was unwilling to hold that legislation prohibiting such a use of the national colors is an infringement of personal rights as contemplated by the national constitution. Justice Peckham dissented.

No Deficit This Time.
Representative Tawney, of Minnesota, chairman of the committee on appropriations, announced that instead of feeling a deficit in the treasury at the close of the fiscal year of 1908, as seemed imminent at one time there would be a surplus of $20,000,000 at that time. The total appropriations made at the present session of congress, he said, aggregate apparently $919,948,679.68.

For Panama Relief.

Declaring that Russia has been a friend of America in the past, President Roosevelt, in a letter to the Russian famine relief committee of New York, made public today appeals for contributions in behalf of the famine sufferers in that country. With the letter he sent his own check for $100. He calls attention to the "literally unparalleled prosperity of the country," and hopes that the people out of their abundance will give generously on this occasion.

Ollie James for House Leader.

Ollie James was strongly tipped as a possible candidate for Democratic leader of the house in the Sixty-first congress.

If he enters the race it will become interesting, as there are prospects already of a lively fight, and the addition of a candidate from Kentucky would draw support from both Williams and De Armond. James admitted that several representatives had broached the subject to him. His success in getting the 3-cent fire bill through the house Saturday night has started quite a boom for him for leader.

Rochester, Ky., March 5.—Hugo Kelley and Tommy Ryan fought six rounds here tonight to a draw. Kelly had the advantage of the first two rounds but Ryan forced the fighting in the fourth and succeeding rounds.

Puts Bugs in Beds to Sell Springs.

Glasgow, Ky., March 5.—A new swindler has made his appearance along the Kentucky and Tennessee border, and his victims are numbered by the score; in fact, almost everyone he has visited has been victimized. The man sets an inferior grade of hot springs. He enters a home and asks permission to examine the feather beds. With his knife he slips open the tick and thrusts in his hand and brings forth a handful of feathers, mixed with bugs, which he had taken from his pocket. These he exhibits to the astonished household. In these homes, it is alleged, he pinned springs for $10 that could have been purchased for $1.50, taking the bug infested feathers in exchange for the springs.

Don't Fear Grand Jury.

Princeton, Ky., March 5.—Another incident in the Western Kentucky tobacco war is reported from Outer Pond, in the southeastern part of this county, where a band of men last night broke into two cars on a siding and ruined tobacco consigned to the American Sunn company plant at Hopkinsville. Fifteen masked men were seen riding south of there last night, and it is thought they are the ones who did the work, which was not revented until daylight.

The two car loads of tobacco had been loaded by George Martin and his tenants, and were ready to be taken to Hopkinsville. Altogether some 16 sacks of fine weed were rolled out, the hoops broken and the tobacco scattered about and trampled until practically worthless.

There is some question here as to whether the railroad or the consignors will have to stand the loss, and there is a possibility of litigation on this point. It is reported that the railroad company had issued bills of lading, and if this is true, the loss will fall on it. The doors of the cars being officially sealed the crime is made much greater. There have been several cases within the last few weeks in which tobacco not pledged to the growers' organization has been destroyed by night riders, and when circuit court convenes here tomorrow Judge Gordon is expected to deliver a hot charge on the subject.

Parents are warned against giving children cough or cold remedies containing opiates, as narcotics only stifle the lungs and render them more susceptible to the deadly tubercular germ. The following simple formula, the ingredients of which can be obtained from any good prescription druggist at small cost, will break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure my cough that is capable: Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), one-half ounce; Glycerine, two ounces; good Whisky, a half pint. Almost Lynching When Truth is Known About Drugging Young Girls

Marietta, O., March 5.—A lynching seemed imminent here this evening when a large crowd of people surrounded the city jail, where Walter W. Savage, of Syracuse, N. Y., and his accomplice, Andy Cornthwaite, were imprisoned.

Savage is an advertising sketch artist and has been here about a week, occupying a window in the Blue Savvy Society building. He has made a specialty of getting young girls to allow him to make their pictures.

About 1 o'clock this afternoon he had six young girls between the ages of 12 and 14 years old, in his room, gave them whisky, wine and beer and administered some kind of a drug. At 6 o'clock this evening the police discovered that something was wrong and upon investigating found all six of the girls unconscious lying on the floor. The girls and the two men, Savage and Cornthwaite, having been found in the room, were taken to the city jail.

Physicians were summoned to make an examination of the girls and cornthwaite was administered, and about 7 o'clock they had partly regained consciousness. The girls claim that the men forced them to drink.

Physicians bring suit on behalf of the state to recover that amount, declaring that Mr. Sheldon is unlawfully occupying the house.

The consequence of the suit, should it be won by the state, might prove rather astounding. Governor Sheldon, of course, would undoubtedly move out, as on salary of $2,500 a year he could hardly afford to pay half of it for rent.

As a result of the suit, Governor Sheldon has been dubbed "Honest George."

The woman who has had the benefit of some years of "advertising" is, as a consequence, "educated" in some directions in quite as practical a way as her husband.

Indeed, if the husband knows his profession, his business, his trade, as well as the wife knows her business as "buyer for the home," he will prosper.

The woman shopper understands that her education—as a "buyer"—is never finished. Conditions, markets, prices, goods, fashions, fabrics—all these are changing and altering continually. To keep "posted" the housewife watches the stores advertising with an alert eye and understanding.

Daily Thought.

God, who staves each separate soul, Out of commonplace lives, makes his beautiful whole.

CLINTON BROOKS LEIGH.

The Deseret Evening News of Salt Lake City, in an editorial pays a beautiful tribute to the late Clinton Brooks Leigh, that his friends throughout Paducah will appreciate. The tribute is especially fitting as the news is the Mormon organ and Mr. Leigh was on an anti-Mormon paper. While strong in his views, surrendering not one jot or tittle to the enemy, he was always courteous, and that he made friends and not enemies the following words go to show:

Clinton B. Leigh! What a splendid example of sterling and honorable manhood he was! Not many years a citizen of this state, yet one who learned to love it much and with voice and pen proclaim its greatness. A native of Kentucky, he possessed all the old time ideas of southern chivalry and high regard for womanhood. Polite, courteous and dehonair, affable, gentle and all round good fellow, in the more staid sense of the word. His friends came near approximating the number of acquaintances he could boast, and they were very many. In his home he was uncomonly kind, a husband and a father who ruled his little household by the magic wand of love, rather than by the scepter of authority. Shadows had often fallen across his pathway, but out of the clouds he ever smiled, and into the sunlight he came again with new hope and faith. The somber emblems of mourning had not yet been put away by the family when this heavier affliction came with terrific suddenness upon them. The crushing force of the blow enlists the full sympathy of an entire community in their behalf and now that "Thirty"—the newspaper man's sign of "the end"—has so unexpectedly been written on the last page of Life's copy, may his sleep be sweet and undisturbed till the great awakening when the trump shall sound for the good and just to arise and shine."

That particular "bureau established and maintained by the public utility corporations of America," which "padded out" the account in yesterday's SUN of the municipal election in London last Saturday, certainly must be prompt and efficient to have gotten up its figures so quickly after the election; for all the Sunday papers (always saving and excepting those published in Paducah) contained reports of the London election identical in substance to that published by THE SUN Monday evening. Those papers using the same news service as THE SUN had the same story, word for word. The election occurred Saturday: the count was made Saturday night, and reports, gathered from every precinct in London, were sent to America at what must have been midnight or after. Then, it seems, that the "bureau" got the news off the cable fixed it up, and sent it broadcast to all the papers in the United States, both associated press and Scripps-McRae, and they had it printed in their papers three hours after it came across the water. And, if the news was "padded" by a "bureau", the truth has not yet come out; for those papers which deal with news are still publishing the same account; and those which deal with views exclusively, are doing nothing but frothing at the mouth. That "bureau" certainly is swift—swifter than Paducah Sunday papers; for, although THE SUN had an article Saturday afternoon on the progress of the election that day, the people of Paducah had to wait until Monday evening to learn from THE SUN the result of the election.

Unfortunate, indeed, will it be, if the petty feud between the board of public works and the sewer department brings permanent injury to the city sewer system. It has been less than two months since the sewer inspector was compelled to appeal to Mayor Yelser for assistance, which was refused him by the chairman of the board of public works. He required oil and station for the engine at the pumping station, but the chairman, who is invested with discretion between meetings of the board, declined to recognize the sewer inspector. At that time the engine and pump were going day and night to keep the water from backing up in the sewers and filling all the cellars in Paducah. The urgency of the matter was manifested when Mayor Yelser broke a rule and promptly issued a requisition, saying that he could not afford to let a departmental misunderstanding bring hardship to the citizens. Had the pump stopped, the damage and suffering would have been incalculable. Now the sewer inspector has appealed to the general council, and we trust the board of public works will heed the council's instructions. We cannot believe the board's conduct is dictated by soreness at Judge Reed's decision that the general council and not the board of public works has authority to appoint the inspector.

Talk as we will about the simplicity of American democracy, there is something radically wrong when a man like Senator Spooner of Wisconsin, after devoting sixteen years of his life to public service, must resign before his term expires in order to earn a competence for himself and family, that he may not become a public charge, or a burden on his children, in his old age. He is past sixty and one of the finest lawyers in America. Yet, he has continued in office drawing $5,000 annually, when he might have been earning $50,000 a year, as a corporation lawyer. Every few days we hear of some great intellect, that should have been devoted to the country's cause, engaged in the industrial field. There are other sacrifices than financial that a man must make to hold public office, and few are willing to submit. The country can not afford to let all the brains get away from the public service. There is, perhaps, more than one reason why the senate is composed chiefly of rich men.

No newspaper suppresses news, whether that news is favorable or unfavorable to its chosen policies. The fact that a sheet allows as important a news item as a London county council election, in which the policies of 18 years standing are overwhelmingly rebuked, to go unmentioned for three days, except to hear false witness against papers that do publish it, shows that the particular sheet does not fit the definition of a newspaper.

We have yet to be accused by a reputable newspaper or a truthful person of publishing foreign news that did not come through the regular channels, without crediting it.

Senator Spooner has resigned his seat in the United States senate to resume his law practice. For once Wisconsin's senators are in accord in a matter of party policy.

The Americanization of British municipal elections canno just in time to avert the Anglicization of American municipalities.

Municipal ownership of transportation facilities has never existed in Chicago.

Thaw's attorneys fear another brain storm. A little sprinkle of brains wouldn't hurt him.

Still the great white plague leads the dance of death.

M. O. IN LONDON.

The control of the London county council has been taken away from the municipal owners. The taxpayers have revolted against the theories and have overcome them. They have put up for eighteen years with an administration which, in the name of "progress," has steadily increased taxes and indebtedness without conferring corresponding benefits. The last project of the "progressives" was to spend $120,000,000 in a grand electrification scheme and to drive private enterprise out of the electrical business. That was more than could be endured. If the scheme were to be put through it would mean the utter loss of individual initiative in what is, comparatively speaking, a new field. It would mean hard service to the public through the preservation of antiquated methods. A municipality has not the courage of an individual. It does not throw obsolete machinery on the scrap heap to put in new machinery and better the service. So the taxpayers vetoed the project and turned out the men who were behind it.

Municipal ownership theories have been given a fair trial in the world's greatest city. They have been carried to the delightful point of municipal billiards and dominoes. The taxpayers might have stood that, but they could not stand the reckless extravagance which prevailed in nearly every department of local government. They could not endure the poor business methods which characterized every undertaking the county council entered upon. It had no business ability. It could not make its enterprises meet the cost of operation, where private management would have made a profit.

In the attempt to show that it was able to make both ends meet, the county council has had to resort to curious tricks of book-keeping. It has tried to hide from the public its inability to manage commercial undertakings. In London and in other English cities the high standard of integrity of municipal government has been lowered through the corrupting influence of municipal ownership. Municipal governments which used to be able to discharge with ability and without reproach the simpler civic duties of former days are now betraying incapacity and are no longer trusted.

It is fortunate that the decline of municipal ownership in England has begun before American cities had committed themselves. They have no excuse now forimitating the excesses into which English municipalities have plunged and are now beginning to repent of.—Chicago Tribune.

What Osteopathy Will Do.

Taero are but few people who have not heard of Osteopathy, also of some of its achievements. But there are far too many who have accredited it with being good for only those

PEOPLE AND SOCIAL EVENTS

Richardson-Jones.

The marriage of Miss Kate Lee Richardson and Mr. Oscar Bertrand Jones, of San Bernardino, Cal., was impressively solemnized this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the First Baptist church, in the presence of a large number of friends of the popular young couple. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Calvin W. Thompson, pastor of the church. Miss Courtelle Puryear played the Mendelssohn wedding march both as a processional and recessional. The only attendants were the ushers: Messrs. Frank H. Hecker, of St. Louis; Eugene Richardson, Paul E. Stutz, J. C. Rogers, W. W. Rogers, Durward Sutton.

The bride, a pliant brunette, looked especially pretty in a stylish tailored coat suit of blue cloth with a blue silk blouse. Her hat and gloves were in harmony with the attractive costume. She carried a shower bouquet of white carnations.

After an informal reception at the Richardson home on South Third street, Mr. and Mrs. Jones left at noon for St. Louis where they will stay a few days with relatives. They will, also, stop in Los Angeles where the bridegroom's brother, Mr. E. B. Jones, is living, and will be at home in San Bernardino after March 16. They received a number of beautiful bridal gifts.

The marriage unites two well-known and popular young people, belonging to prominent Paducah families. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Richardson, and is a charming and lovable girl.

Mr. Jones is the youngest son of late E. B. Jones, of Paducah, and is an exceedingly popular young man. He has made his home in California for the last five years. He and his brother, Mr. Jimmy Jones, have a large photographic supply house in San Bernardino. Before leaving here he held a responsible position in the American-German National bank, and was for a time the clerk of McCracken county, filling out the unexpired term of his father, who died in office.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT MEETING.

The Educational department of the Woman's club met yesterday afternoon at the home of Dr. Delia Caldwell. It was a meeting of interest and matters pertaining to local educational work were discussed, especially the approaching election of superintendent of the Paducah public schools, which the committee is anxious should be postponed awhile longer.

The Educational department will have the open meeting of the Woman's club March 21, and will have an interesting program of local speakers on educational matters or some one from away.

Shadeways of the World.

Shadeways of the world! A few deep babel in a dozen different tongues. Close squeezed here are races that have been apart for ten of thousands of years—races now to be slowly welded together. How absolutely different are the faces. A broad, stolid Polish face close by an exalted little Italian mother who fills the air with gestures. Gestures rise from all the shadeways. For the southeast of Europe loves gestures, and it is from the southeast that most of our immigrants come. Three-fourths are from Italy, Austria-Hungary, Bohemia, Poland, and South Russia. Three-fourths are peasants from farms and little hamlets. Three-fourths are unskilled laborers bringing an average of only $22 each. Three-fourths are men under forty coming first alone, their wives and children to follow them later. They are the strong men of their countries; you can see it now as you look down into the shadeways. They are the healthy picked out of the vast poverty-stricken areas of the southeast—the peasants on whose shoulders for centuries Europe has rested.

These men are not coming here because of the Declaration of Independence. They come moved by the deep primal instinct of man—to get for himself and his family more of the good things of life.

A vast primeval horde. Coarse, massive, honest faces. And on these faces—big simple, human feelings.—Ernest Poole in "The Men Who Are to Vote," in "Everybody's Magazine" for October.

HONEST PACKING

SHALL BE FOLLOWED BY DARK TOBACCO GROWERS.

Instructions Sent to Prizers Concerning Hogheads That Show Damage.

Guthrie, Ky., March 5.—The following instructions have been sent to the prizers for the Dark Tobacco association:

"The object of this is to call your attention to the following instructions, given the general inspector by the executive committee at its last meeting. When a hoghead shows damage by reason of bad packing, you shall notify the prizer, the salesman and the owner of the tobacco; have the damage assessed and collect such damage from the prizer."

This means that the inspection will be thorough, impartial, and will therefore show up the careless and dishonest packer, it being the committee's intention, that the association's reputation for honest packing and honest sampling shall be maintained. It also means that all bad packing will be reported to the committee and the grading of the prizers will be based on these reports.

Hollowness of "Agencies."

"Let us take New York as typical of all American cities," says Roy L. McCordell in "Help! Help! Help!" in the October Everybody's, "in the matter of supply and demand in servant girls. Let us go to an 'Agency.'

"There is no emotion about an agency, either in those who conduct it or those who frequent it. Valit is to pour forth your trouble to the shabby man or jaded, flabby woman who conduct an agency. They have heard all these stories so many times. They might sit down and say, ahead of you, what you are going to say. But they listen. It is part of their trade to listen."

"Then they lead you to a frowsy back room where some twenty women sit, wearing twenty shocking bad hats. The agent runs glibly through your story. You want a woman for general housework. You will give so much—you will give anything if you get a really good girl; you will treat her, oh, so kindly."

"You wonder why the twenty impulsive females do not throw themselves at you all at once and say, 'Take me I am yours!' But the twenty females restrain themselves. They do not want general housework. They are cooks and they always got $100 a month. They are laundresses and they always got $25 a month. They are parlor-maids and they always got $35, or they are nursery-maids who always got—oh, well, what's the use!"

SHORT TALKS BY L. T. COOPER

INTERNAL PARASITES.

Cooper's New Discovery has taught me many things, least of which is that parasites or tape worms as they are called are responsible for an immense amount of suffering. Thousands of these creatures have been brought to me by people who have taken the New Discovery who have taken the New Discovery and I now know that an immense amount of supposed stomach trouble is caused in reality by one of these parasites. A man or woman may be afflicted in this manner for years and not realize the true cause of their suffering. When I first sold Cooper's New Discovery I did not know that the medicine would remove this trouble. I have since found that it invariably does so. The following letter is a fair sample of the symptoms as experienced by an individual thus affected:

"I was always tired. My stomach bloated and the slightest exertion made me sick, weak and dizzy. My appetite was variable and a good night's sleep was unknown to me. When I awoke in the morning I had a bad taste in my mouth and a coated tongue. I heard of the wonderful benefits that were being derived from Cooper's New Discovery, and decided to try it."

"The horrible tape worm, sixty feet long that had been sapping my life away, passed from my system alive and squirming after I had taken three doses. Now I have a splendid appetite, every trace of stomach trouble has disappeared, and my digestion is good. I sleep well and gain strength every day." Nick Emmerick, 1341 Louis Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

FARMER'S BODY

DISCOVERED IN CLARK'S RIVER YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Two Big Sacks of Oats Held Him Down—Funeral Took Place at Once in Stice Cemetery.

Lying on his back just below McCoy's ford in Clark's river with two big sacks of oats clasped in his stiffened fingers and lying across his chest, the body of Samuel Farmer, who was drowned there Sunday, February 24, was found yesterday afternoon and was buried in the Stice cemetery. The man had on a heavy overcoat. Farmer came to Paducah the Friday before with a cow to sell. He disposed of it and made some purchases. He started home Sunday, and although warned by a man not to attempt to ford Clark's river, he drove his team of mules into the stream. The wagon broke apart, and the mules with the front wheel swam across, and were found the next Tuesday tangled up in some bushes. Farmer had $5 in his trousers' pocket when his body was discovered.

Some of "Sunset" Cox's Satire.

In the March American Magazine, Ida M. Tarbell tells the story of the efforts that were made in Grant's time to reduce the high tariffs that were established during the war.

"There was a pretty general frank admission that the war tariffs ought not to go on," says Miss Tarbell, "but if you get it for your constituents you must give it to me for mine." It was a phase which gave great joy to "Sunset" Cox, and he mocked at it in a speech long remembered:

"Let us be to each other instruments of reciprocal rapine," said Mr. Cox. "Michigan steals on copper; Maine on lumber; Pennsylvania on iron; North Carolina on peanuts; Massachusetts on cotton goods; Connecticut on apples; New Jersey on spool thread; Louisiana on sugar and so on. Why not let the gentlemen from Maryland steal coal from them? True, but a comparative few get the benefit, and it comes out of the holy of the people; true it tends to high prices, but does not stealing encourage industry? Let us as moralists, if not as politicians, rewrite the eighth commandment: Thou shalt steal; because stealing is right when common."

"As I am a Representative of New York, and Onondaga, with the aid of the foreign solar artisan, evaporates salt, ought I not also to steal to help Onondaga? Stealing, by tariffs, Mr. Chairman is in DeQuincey proved of murder, a fine art. If everybody stole from everybody is there any reproach to anybody? If everybody is a burglar is there any need for anybody to lock up houses?"

"How happy we should be when we can all look each other in the face here, clasp hands, as now I look late the face of the gentleman from Massachusetts and say: God bless you, my brother; you have stolen from me, and I from you; let us love one another. Then the little unprotected pigs, who are crowded by the big pigs, quietly eating out of the trough, will squeal no more to be let in, for on this idea all shall be fed by swallowing each other's food; and when all are fed, no one loses and we shall be happy."

Dyspepsia

The stomach is in far greater danger from uric acid than any other organ; hence, dyspepsia is a most common ailment. Most people who suffer from its early symptoms foolishly neglect it. You will surely regret it if you neglect it.

Uric acid is always the cause. All through our stomach membrane, is a network of tiny blood vessels. When you eat heavy or improper foods these little blood vessels congest so that the blood stops flowing through them, and the uric acid—always in the blood—crystallizes in the congested veins, forming sharp little grains like sand. These constantly irritate the nerves, causing pain in the stomach.

Artificial digestives such as compounds of charcoal, pepsin, soda and the like, will NEVER cure stomach trouble. You MUST clear the urine acid sand out of the blood vessels. This is the ONLY way. LIFE PLANT does this! LIFE PLANT is provided especially by Nature to wash out accumulated uric acid from every part of the body. Through this power LIFE PLANT will restore your stomach to perfect condition, so that it will be a joy for you to eat and live. Our files are full of unsolicited letters proving this. Read just one:

"I have been troubled with indigestion for years. Last year the joints of my right hand became much swollen and very painful with rheumatism. Life Plant was recommended, and after taking three bottles I have no more trouble with my stomach. The pain from the rheumatism is gone and the joints almost in normal condition."

CHAPTER XXII.

FTER his interview with Eve, Loder retired to the study and spent the remaining hours of the day and the whole span of the evening in work. At 1 o'clock, still feeling fresh in mind and body, he dismissed Greening and passed into Chilcott's bedroom. The interview with Eve, though widely different from the one he had anticipated, had left him stimulated and alert. In the hours that followed it there had been an added anxiety to put his mind into harness, an added gratification in finding it answer to the reel.

A pleasant sense of retrospection settled upon him as he slowly undressed, and a pleasant sense of interest touched him as, crossing to the dressing table, he caught sight of Chilcott's engagement book, taken with other things from the suit he had changed at dinner time and carefully laid aside by Greening.

He picked it up and slowly turned the pages. It always held the suggestion of a lottery, this slipping into another man's engagements and drawing a prize or a blank. It was a sensation that even custom had not dulled.

At first he turned the pages slowly, then by degrees his fingers quickened. Beyond the fact that this present evening was free he knew nothing of his promised movements. The abruptness of Chilcott's arrival at Clifford's Inn in the afternoon had left no time for superfluous questions. He skinned the writing with a touch of interested haste, then all at once he paused and smiled.

"Big enough for a tombstone!" he said below his breath as his eyes rested on a large blue cross. Then he smiled again and held the book to the light.

"One 33 Cadogan gardens, 8 o'clock," he announced in a subdued, discreet voice.

He stood for a moment pondering on the entry, then once more his glance reverted to the cross.

"Evidently meant it to be seen," he mused. "But why the deuce isn't he more explicit?" As he spoke a look of comprehension suddenly crossed his face and the puzzled frown between his eyebrows cleared away.

With a feeling of satisfaction he remembered Lakeley's frequent and pressing suggestion that he should drop with him at Cadogan gardens and discuss the political outlook.

Lakeley must have written during his absence, and Chilcott, having incurred the engagement, felt no further responsibility. The invitation could scarcely have been verbal, as Chilcott, he knew, had lain very low in the five days of his return home.

He argued as he stood with the book still open in his hands, the blue cross stirring imperceptively from the white paper. And from the argument rose thoughts and suggestions that seethed in his mind long after the lights had been switched off, long after the fire had died down, and he had been left wrapped in darkness in the great enclosure of his return home.

One end of the couch was in firelight, the other in shadow. By a fortunate arrangement of chance Lillian selected the brighter end for herself and offered the other to her guest. With a quick sense of reprieve he accepted it. At least he could sit secure from detection while he temporized with fate.

For a moment they sat silent, then Lillian stirred. "You're unusually punctual," she said. "But your hands are cold. Come closer to the fire."

Loder was not sensible that his hands were cold, but he suffered himself to be drawn forward.

One end of the couch was in firelight, the other in shadow. By a fortunate arrangement of chance Lillian selected the brighter end for herself and offered the other to her guest. With a quick sense of reprieve he accepted it. At least he could sit secure from detection while he temporized with fate.

For a moment they sat silent, then Lillian stirred. "You're going out?" she asked. And it struck Loder quickly that there was a suggestion, a shadow of disappointment in the tone of her voice. Moved by the impression he responded with unusual promptness.

"Yes," he said. "I'm dining out-dining with Lakeley."

She watched him intently while he spoke; then, as the meaning of his words reached her, her whole face brightened.

"With Mr. Lakeley?" she said. "Oh, I'm glad—very glad. It is quite—quite another step." She smiled with a warm, impulsive touch of sympathy.

Loder, looking up at her, felt his senses stir. At sound of her words his secret craving for success quickened to stronger life. The man whose sole incentive lies within may go forward coldly and successfully; but the man who grasps a double inspiration, who, even unconsciously, is impelled by another force, has a stronger impetus for attack, a surer, more vital hewing power. Still watching her, he unanswered intuitively.

"Yes," he said slowly, "a long step."

And, with a smile of farewell, he turned ed, opened the door and passed into the room.

The thrill of that one moment was still warm as he reached Cadogan gardens and mounted the steps of No. 33—so vitally warm that he paused for an instant before pressing the electric bell. Then at last, dominated by antipathetic, he turned and raised his hand.

The action was abrupt, and it was only as his fingers pressed the bell that a certain unexpectedness, a certain want of suitability in the aspect of the house, struck him. The door was white; the handle and knocker were of massive silver. The first seemed a disappointing index of Lakeley's private taste, the second a ridiculous temptation to needy humanity. He looked again at the number of the house, but it stared back at him convincingly. Then the door opened.

"Jack," she began gently, "a really amazing thing has happened to me. I do so want you to throw some light." Loder said nothing.

There was a fresh pause while she softly smoothed the silk embroidery that edged her gown. Then once more she looked up at him.

"Did I ever tell you," she began, "that I was once in a railway accident on a tiny little Italian railway centered before I met you?" She laughed softly and with a pretty air of confidence turned from the fire and resumed her seat.

"Astrum had caught a fever in Florence, and I was rushing away for fear of the infection, when our stupid little train ran off the rails near Pistoria and smashed itself up. Fortunately we were within half a mile of a village, so we weren't quite bereft. The village was impossibly like a toy village, and the accommodation what one would expect in a Non's ark, but it was all absolutely picturesque. I put up at the little inn with my maid and Ko-Ko. Ko-Ko was such a sweet dog—a white poodle. I was tremendously keen on poodles that year." She stopped and turned thoughtfully toward the fire.

"But, to come to the point of the story, Jack, the toy village had a big foll!" She laughed again. "We was an Englishman—and the first person to come to my rescue on the night of the smashup. He was staying at the Non's ark inn, and after that first night—he—we—Ooh, Jack, haven't you any imagination?" Her voice sounded petulant and sharp. The man who is indifferent to the recital of an old love affair blushes like a child.

"I believe you come into the white room, sir? And may I take your coat?"

The smooth certainty of the man's manner surprised him. It held another flavor of disappointment, seeming as little as keeping with the keen, busineslike Lakeley as did the house. Still struggling with his impression, he allowed himself to be relieved of his hat and coat and in silence ushered up the shallow staircase.

As the last step was reached it came to him again to mention his host's name, but simultaneously with the suggestion the servant stepped forward with a quick, silent movement and threw open a door.

"Will you come into the white room, sir? And may I take your coat?"

The smooth certainty of the man's manner surprised him. It held another flavor of disappointment, seeming as little as keeping with the keen, busineslike Lakeley as did the house. FERTILIZER TRUST WINS.

Cannot Be Removed to Tennessee for Trial.

Washington, March 5.—The fertilizer trust cases, involving the right of the United States to compel the removal of the indicted officials of the fertilizer companies, constituting the alleged trust, from Virginia to Tennessee for trial, were decided today by the supreme court of the United States adversely to the government's contention. There were eleven cases before the court, and all arose out of indictments returned by the federal grand jury to the middle district of Tennessee sitting at Nashville, which charged the defendants with conspiring to regulate the price of fertilizers in the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee in violation of the anti-trust law of 1890. When taken into custody by the Virginia marshal the defendants appealed to the United States circuit court for writs of habeas corpus on the ground that the Tennessee court under the constitution was incompetent to try them for an offense which had not been committed in that jurisdiction.

BANDIT KILLED.

Member of Rurales Dies During the Pitched Battle.

Culiacan, Mexico, March 5.—In a pitched battle which occurred in the Mochis hills, between three members of the rurales and the notorious bandit, Perifloro B. Obaso, the latter was mortally wounded and one of the rurales instantly killed. Obaso was shot through the bowels and cannot live. Obaso has been working alone, committing many depredations through his district and rurales have been on his trail for days. They encountered him in the Mochis hills and the fight opened with the bandit concealed between sheltering rocks. About sixty shots were exchanged. It was while trying to change from his shelter to a position higher up the hill that the bandit received his death wounds.

Inmigrant Mother's Plight.

Writing of Ellis Island scenes in "The Men Who Are in Vote," in the October Everybody's, Ernest Poole says:

"In this same hall an old Austrian mother was kept five days. She had lost the railroad ticket her son had sent her. Again and again they telephoned to the small town where she said he lived, but no reply came.

"He is so fine, so strong, so rich—my Fritz!" she kept saying. "This fine dress and this bonnet he sent me. To Austria he wrote me every week. Surely—surely he will come!"

"She grew worse and worse. She could not sleep at night, and all day sat by the window watching the Manhattan sky-scrapers. Her face grew haggard and lined with tears. She was so bewildered, she could no longer answer questions. The name of the town was all she could give. There were eighteen towns of this name in various States; but the name of her son's State she had forgotten. All she knew was that Fritz lived in a town quite near New York. Town after town was telephoned to. Still no reply. At last it seemed hopeless and the old lady was about to be deported.

"Suddenly came a telegram:

"Hold mother! Am coming!" And four hours later another: "Don't deport my mother. I have plenty to support her. Am coming by fast train. Hold her!"

"And later that afternoon a young man, sleepless and wild-eyed, arrived—from Kansas! Quito near New York."

NOTHING HEARD
OF COMMISSION

Railroad Men Receive no Notice of Meeting

Congestion of Local Yards Caused by Lack of Motive Power on Line.

ACCIDENTS CAUSE MUCH DELAY.

Illinois Central officials who are here seeking to remedy the congested condition of freight, have little time to bother about what the Interstate commerce commission intends to do in this end of the state, and are apparently not greatly concerned.

"Two government men, I don't know just where from, have been in this end of the state for a week or two, but we have not been notified of any meeting of the commission," one official stated. "We presume the officials will receive proper notification in plenty of time. It is true that the commission might have agents looking over the ground previous to its meeting.

"As to the shortage in cars, this has been conspicuous all over the country this season, even more than last. The congested condition of freight on the Louisville division is caused directly by lack of sufficient motive power."

More Bad Luck.
So congested is the condition of freight traffic on the Louisville division of the Illinois Central that three derailments have occurred in three days, and as a last straw the wrecking outfit was wrecked this morning in the Paducah yards.

Saturday night at Horse Branch a freight derailment delayed all traffic and Sunday afternoon a second wreck at Clinton on the Louisville division laid everything out for several hours, and besides with tearing up rails and smashing cars the train ploughed into the depot and tore off two doors.

Last night two miles east of Keokuk on the Calumet extension another freight derailment occurred. Freight No. 875, Engineer Bob Bean, went into the ditch. Fortunately the accident occurred after both east and west bound passenger trains had passed. Little damage was done and after picking up the cars the wrecker started home again.

While being switched into a siding at the shop yard a caboose was hacked into the outfit before it got into the "clear." One of the hoarding cars in the wrecking train was struck in the side and badly demolished. The wrecker was not put out of commission.

FORTUNE COMES TO WORKER.

But He Doesn't Quit While Expecting It.

Redlands, Cal.—L. W. Gilbert, employed at dumping oranges into the grader for the Golden Orange association of this city, received notice that he had fallen heir to $150,000, which will be paid to him by the administrator of the estate of his uncle, John Tribia, a Frenchman, who died in San Bernardino three years ago. The estate has just been settled.

At the time of his uncle's death Gilbert knew he would receive no fortune, but kept at his work. He says he feels better when he works. He is 30 years of age, unmarried, and lives in a tumble down shack near the railroad. He speaks in four languages, and has been court interpreter in both French and Spanish. He is also a graduate physician and practiced in France, and in San Bernardino up to four years ago, but did not like it.

His benefactor was his mother's only brother. Other members of the family are dead. Besides $150,000 cash, there is left to him a farm near Decatur, Ill., valued at $50,000 and two residences in San Bernardino valued at $30,000.

On receipt of the money Gilbert will leave for Decatur, but will not live on the farm. He will probably return here. He says he has never married, having in his profession seen too many of the fatalities of the opposite sex, but says he may yet marry. Gilbert is well spoken of by his employer, C. M. Brown.

No one is ever quite free from its meshes. Have you ever been to Paris? At a hotel or lodging house of any sort? Then you have seen again and again, one of those mysterious agents of the secret police. Usually he is an old little man, dressed in rusty black, red of nose and quick-tempered—so humble a little man that you might easily overlook him. A small ink-bottle hangs by a string from his waistcoat and a yellow penholder is thrust in between two of the buttons. He slips into the hotel or
